How to Manage a Camel – Project Management and Recruitment

The project management and recruitment blog from Arras People

Free Webinar From ESI Targets Business Analysis Education

Posted on | August 3, 2009 | Author: | DanS | No Comments

I received an email the other day from one of my colleagues at ESI International. ESI will be hosting a free webinar event that could hold great lessons for those trying to break into project management or that are simply trying to strengthen their project management / business analysis knowledge. For more information, look for the links below:

‘An Introduction to Business Analysis – A Journey to Excellence’

...Understand how the business analyst is pivotal in defining project requirements in the earliest stages, as well as planning, defining and validating the project scope. Gain an understanding of how the business analyst can and should support a project; from establishing scope in the analysis phase to ensuring that the requirements have been met in the testing phase.

By attending this webinar, you will get a snapshot of the benefits, functions and impact business analysts can have.

This webinar is a taster of our classroom course – Foundations of Business Analysis taking place in London on the 30th September, and is hosted by Topic Expert – Glenn Brûlé.

ESI International has been a solid partner with Arras People over the years, contributing expert analysis and articles and even highly-regarded blog posts from a chest of international experts. They offer a variety of courses in project management & programme management qualifications across the world, as well as change management, business analysis, and several other detailed courses that expand the knowledge and confidence of the modern PM professional. Details below and also here:

Date: Tuesday 25th August 2009
Time: 13.30hrs (UK), 14.30hrs (Germany and Sweden)
Duration: 1 hour
